

Since the "No Call" list went into effect and I signed up, I have enjoyed the peace of mind in knowing that when my phone rang it was not a sales call or solisitation. I don't see a need for any passed agency that had contacted me to do it again. If I want a recontact, I can make that judgement myself and call them and not have my family or I to put up with the "spam" calling again. I feel that the law should stay in place as is. Let the "callers" use other advertizing means to push their products, and let us have peace on our phone and e-mail systems. I thank the Governer for supplying us with this "shield", please keep the protection in place, "AS IS"
